5. Once a week there is compulsory political training for Communist Party members. In addition, there is a meeting once every two weeks or once a month for all employees of the factory. At these meetings lectures on planned economy, the Five-Year Plan, etc., are given. The lectures are followed by discussion periods, during which the workers usually demand higher wages.
6. On the south side of the factory there is a wire fence about $2\frac{1}{2}$ m. high, and on the other sides there are wooden fences about 2 m. high. There are two main entrances to the factory. Entrance No. 1 is used by all employees of the factory, while No. 2 is used only by employees working in the Antonin mine. Factory identity cards are required for admission. At each entrance there is a guardroom which is occupied at all times by two members of the plant militia. Another plant militia sentry is stationed inside the building itself.
